Europlatform 2008 is a joint venture between IPAF and Access International magazine to host a high level, pan-European conference on access and rental management. Some of the topics covered will include safety, best practice and rental management. Leading figures in the industry and very high quality speakers will be in attendance. The event will bring together senior and middle managers of access rental companies to create a "must attend" education and networking conference.

There will be a table-top exhibition to support the event together with a range of sponsorship opportunities to promote your company's brand and product range. The conference and exhibition will:

- be attended by senior rental managers across Europe
- have high quality speakers to attract leading figures in the industry
- be promoted by Access International magazine and website
- be fully supported by IPAF through its extensive membership
